

The 2018/19 SVIR Hague Conference Grant

The Swiss Association of International Law (SVIR) is pleased to present the SVIR Hague Grant Internship. The award will support a post-graduate student or graduate of a Swiss law school to undertake an internship with The Hague Conference on Private International Law (The Hague Conference) in the Netherlands by providing a financial contribution to cover the cost of travel to the Netherlands and a contribution towards living expenses (starting mid-January 2019).

The Hague Conference is a global intergovernmental organization that aims for the “progressive unification” of the various State private international law rules. The work of The Hague Conference involves finding internationally agreed approaches to jurisdiction of courts, applicable law and the recognition and enforcement of judgments. This is achieved through the development and servicing of multilateral legal conventions which respond to global needs in the areas of international commercial law and banking, international civil procedure, international protection of children, international family and family property relations, international legal cooperation and litigation as well as international judicial and administrative cooperation. Activities of The Hague Conference are coordinated by a multinational Secretariat – the Permanent Bureau – located in The Hague. The Conference’s working languages are English and French. More information about the Hague Conference and its current projects can be found under www.hcch.net.

The successful intern will work for 4 to (preferably) 6 months under the direction of the Secretariat assisting with research, translation and preparation of meetings in accordance with the needs of the lawyers of the Permanent Bureau.

In the case of a 6 months internship, PhD-interns (with an ongoing research project) will have 1 day/week available for her or his own research work – the specific time/dates being subject to urgent needs of the respective institution.

Selection criteria:

The applicant must:

- Be a permanent resident of Switzerland or pursuing a course of law studies at a Swiss University and:
 - Hold a graduate level degree in Law (MLaw or JD) of a Swiss University (or be in his or her final year of such a degree); or
 - Be undertaking a postgraduate degree in Law (e.g. LLM or PhD) at a Swiss University;
- Have an excellent academic record;
- Have written and spoken proficiency in English or French, with preference given to those who are also proficient in the other language (English and French being the official languages of The Hague Conference); Ability in a third language will also be taken into account;

- Have an interest or specialization in a field relevant to the work of The Hague Conference;
- Have excellent research and writing skills, demonstrated by dissertation, law review or other publication; and
- Have an ability to work in international or multicultural environments.

It is envisaged that the internship will be of interest to applicants who have undertaken or who are undertaking postgraduate studies relevant to the work programme of The Hague Conference.

How to apply
